

Our Curriculum

The work we do at Youthtown is guided by not only our organisational values, but the ideas contained within our curriculum. Here's a quick guide!

The Goal: Empowered young people, engaged in their communities!

When young people thrive, we all thrive.

Our core outcome areas (things you'll find in every Youthtown space):

LEARNING LIFE SKILLS

Why? Having a diverse skillset hopefully makes you a very useful person to the world you're in now. It also gives you the ability to open more new doors with confidence in the future!

How? We support young people to build and add to a healthy kete of skills and experiences. Our team helps young people develop the language they'll need to articulate these achievements to people they meet on their journey.

WORKING COLLABORATIVELY

Why? In the classroom, real world and workplace beyond, the ability to forge successful and productive relationships with others is key. The world needs problem-solvers. Plus, making friends along the way is awesome!

How? We create a safe space for young people to contribute and make connections. Our team helps young people reflect on what they can give to a group environment whilst bringing out the best in themselves and each other.

BUILDING RESILIENCE

Why? Building a healthy understanding of how to dig deep and navigate the many situations life will throw is a huge advantage. Knowing how to bounce forward and see resilience as a journey are vital wellbeing skills.

How? We provide a high challenge-high support environment for young people to have formative experiences. Our team supports each young person's resilience-building journey with care and empathy.

UNLOCKING POTENTIAL

Why? Finding out what you're good at early on is great, but not everyone knows, and that's okay! A better understanding of what you're drawn to helps you hone your filter on life, aiding you to make better decisions as you find and follow your path.

How? We journey with young people as they discover their strengths and superpowers. Our team supports young people to feel ready to own their greatness. We believe in the power of young people!
